Our continued race through Turkey next took us to Amasya, another town of mixed beauty and history, the most famous of which being some very old rock tombs, prominently carved out of the cliffs above the town centre. The other highlight of Amasya was the tourist office, where we were given the ambassador's treatment - lectured at length on local sights as well as other distinguished visitors from Cambridge while seated on leather armchairs in front of the Tourist officer's desk. We got away with armfuls of coloured brochures, quite enough to last us the hour that we had in his small town.

A photograph of an elderly man with a mustache, wearing a grey flat cap, a dark jacket, and a yellow and brown argyle sweater. He is sitting outdoors next to a large potted plant with pink and white flowers. The background shows a weathered wall with a window featuring a decorative metal grille.

Example 1: $\text{C}_2\text{H}_6 + \text{O}_2 \rightarrow \text{CO}_2 + \text{H}_2\text{O}$ is a balanced equation. $\text{C}_2\text{H}_6 + 2\text{O}_2 \rightarrow \text{CO}_2 + 3\text{H}_2\text{O}$ is not a balanced equation.
